

FOREIGN LINGO IN HOTEL MENU

Chef Says All Purchases
Should Be Made by Pound Measure

CHICAGO, May 6.—Chicago chefs are working upon plans to be presented to the hotel men of the country that will cut down expenses, reduce waste to a minimum and cater more to what the public really wants. The chefs, who are members of the Local Craft of the Progressive Caterers Association, an organization designed to work for the betterment of hotel service, are busy now writing papers on subjects of vital interest to hotel men and which may result in radical changes being made in hotel management. These papers will be discussed at the annual meeting of the organization held at the Hotel Negri, Chicago, Saturday and Sunday.

Action Negri, Chicago, president and president of the Local Craft, will present some of the findings that the hotel men face.

One of the big objections we have to contend with is the intermediary between the chef in the hotel and the chef," said Mr. Negri. "The manager should know the menu of the kitchen. He should be in direct contact with it and know personally what the rest conditions are. The chef gets the blame when he does not deserve it. The pound should be the standard weight. The hotel men of the country should unite and demand that the cooks make it the standard." Men would not have to buy carrots by the box and spinach by the bushel. There are many sizes in boxes and no two bushels are the same in the quantity they contain. There should be just so many pounds in a box or bushel. When we get a pound of rice we know we have a pound of rice, but it is astonishing the loss a hotel incurs in a year by being compelled to buy by the box and the bushel.

It can be argued that foreign names be eliminated from menus is another topic that will be determined during the exposition. Mr. Negri contends that it is impossible to absolutely Americanize menus, for the reason that the cooks have been trained according to the foreign terms.

"You could not eliminate the foreign names any more than a doctor could discontinue the use of Latin in his prescriptions," said Mr. Negri. "The chefs are trying to eliminate as much as possible for the benefit of the public which wants to know more definitely what it is eating."

"Why the hotel food is not like 'home cooking'" will also be discussed.

"It is a question of the climate," said Mr. Negri. "Hot countries people crave highly seasoned food. In Chicago the seasoning of food is mild. We might call it 'common sense' cooking."

Nature's Laws Called Guide to Active Life Of a Hundred Years

HE GOT WHAT WAS COMING TO HIM

Jury Frees Woman Killer
Without Retiring From the Courtroom

MEMPHIS, Tenn., May 6.—"By following nature's laws we can increase the traditional span of life three more years and ten to approximately 100 years. Not 100 years of those, but full years, good years, and health years, happy years, and health years," said Dr. C. V. Little, prominent local physician addressing the Kiwanis club here.

Death is as natural as life, but premature death is an accident of nature," continued Doctor Little. "It may be due to ignorance, mere carelessness, or otherwise than carelessness. It is an accident."

Doctor Little said 600,000 persons die annually due to preventable diseases, and that 2,000,000 sick beds are constantly filled unnecessarily.

Pure water, pure air, pure and proportioned food, rationing, plenty of exercise, work and hard work, are contributing to health and happiness, Doctor Little asserted. Play and recreation are as essential as work and rest in improving the physique.

RACING BALLOON NEARLY COMPLETE

Government Craft Nearing Completion on
Army Field

BELLEVILLE, Ill., May 6.—Sgt. Major of the United States Army air station here are putting the finishing touches on the big balloon that the war department has entered in the international balloon race to be held May 8 at Milwaukee. This is the second balloon to be entered by the government in the international balloon event. It is being built under the direction of A. Leo Stevens, veteran balloonist, chief civilian aeronautical officer at the local field.

The first balloon entered in a race by the government was constructed two years ago at Fort Omaha under the direction of Stevens. It had a capacity of 78,500 cubic feet of gas. The balloon under construction here will have a capacity of 90,500 cubic feet and a lifting power of three tons.

All of the work on this unusually large craft will be done by privates and sergeants, with the exception of the seamstress work, which will be carried on by women.

It takes 2,500 yards of special balloon fabric for this envelope. Five and one-half miles of hawling are represented in this job, two and one-half barrels of special varnish, two barrels of naphtha and many other ingredients have been used.

"I like all these mirrors best. But I like all these mirrors best. You can flirt with such a lot of men in them and before they can really locate you, why—you're gone!"

Her Point of Vantage.

They were dining tête-à-tête in the new hotel restaurant—he striving to keep alive conversation growing strangely one-sided; she answering at random monosyllabically when question compelled response.

"I do like this room," she suddenly declared enthusiastically again with heightened color. "It's ever so much nicer than the big dining room."

"It is bright and cozy," he gallantly agreed. "Everything's new and fresh. That's what you like about it?"

"Y-e-s," she hesitatingly conceded, a flush flooding neck and throat.

"But I like all those mirrors best. You can flirt with such a lot of men in them and before they can really locate you, why—you're gone!"
